Zotero works with Chrome, Safari, Firefox, Opera and Microsoft Edge

Download both of the following programs:

- Zotero 5.0 is the program where your references are stored
- The Zotero Connector is a plugin for your browser, that makes it super easy to save references to your Zotero library.

How to add references to your Zotero-library?

Four main ways to add references to Zotero:

- 1. Manually add references
- 2. Add references with an identifier
- 3. Use the Zotero Connector

1. Manually add references

4. Add references by drag and drop PDF-files into your library

2. Add references with an identifier (PMID, DOI, ISBN, arXiv IDs)

A sample of ID-numbers on an article found in PubMed:

PMID = PubMed ID, DOI = Digital Object Identifier PMCID = PubMed Central ID (is an archive of full-text journal articles) (Does not work as an identifier)

3. Use the browser extension (the Zotero Connector) to export from databases

After a search in an academic database, click the "Save to Zotero" extension in your browser. Then choose which references you want do export to Zotero and click OK.

4. Drag and drop PDF-files of journal articles into Zotero

If you have a lot of journal articles (as pdf-files) downloaded to your computer, then just mark them, and drag and drop them in the main window of Zotero (see below). Zotero will automatically fill out the fields for us (add them for us).

This will usually only work for journal articles. Always check the reference afterwards.

Organize and maintain your library

Add Tags and Notes to your references to improve organization and retrieval

The Tags will be visible on the lower left side and are searchable in your library. There may be some automatic tags added as well. (These can be removed in the Tags-window by select the action button and click on the delete automatic tags in this library).

You can also add Notes and choose to link references together

2	Info Notes Tags Related

Create folders to organize references for different projects

Right click My Library > New Collection... to add folders for your references in different projects. Here, I have added two projects: MS seminar and Aberdeen. Stay in the folder where you want to add the new references (or drag and drop from My Library). My Library will contain all references in all folders.

Avoid duplicates

If you have duplicates among your references, you can find them in the folder Duplicate Items. On the right side you can choose which you prefer to keep (preferable one with much information) and then click Merge.

Zotero with Word

You might get messages about errors if you have both Zotero and Mendeley installed at the same time. For me this window popped up each time I started up Word.

(Despite this, you could ignore it, because Zotero worked fine anyway).

The Zotero tab:

Add an in-text citation: Click Add/Edit Citation and the following text-field will pop up.

The first time you do this in your document, you will be asked to choose style first. The style can be changed at any time later.

Now you can start type Author-name or parts of the title in the field to find a reference – or, click the Z > Classic View to get a window (shown under) with all references in your Zotero Library. Choose one (or more) to use them in your text (Click OK).

Add Bibliography (The reference list)

There are two ways to add the reference list to your document:

1. (Copy and paste from Zotero) In Zotero:

> Stay in the folder/collection where you have the references used in your document. Right click and choose Create Bibliography from Collection... In the window that pop up, choose the style you want for your Bibliography and click Copy to Clipboard.

Then paste it into your document, either it is a Word-, LateX-, Google Docs or any txtdocument you are using.

Or

2. In Word:

Add in cite references by choosing Add/Edit Bibliography.

Remember, the Reference list will be added exact where the mouse cursor is standing (when you add it).

Click Document Preferences to change style. In the window that pop up you can also choose to update automatically when you add new or delete citations to the text.

If you discover some typos/errors in your references after import to Zotero:

If you see some typos or other small bugs or things in the reference list, go to Zotero and fix the error there. Then they will be updated in your document as well. (If nothing happens, click Refresh.)

Zotero with Google documents

• More help at Zotero.org: How to use Zotero with Google Docs: https://www.zotero.org/support/google_docs

In the Zotero menu, you'll find the following options:

Add/Edit Citation	Add a new citation or edit an existing citation in your document at the cursor location.
Add/Edit Bibliography	Insert a bibliography at the cursor location or edit an existing bibliography.
Preferences	Open the Document Preferences window, e.g. to change the citation style.
Refresh	Refresh all citations and the bibliography, updating any item metadata that has changed in your Zotero library.
Unlink Citations	Unlink Zotero citations in the document by removing the field codes. This prevents any further automatic updates of the citations and bibliographies. Note that removing field codes is irreversible and should usually only be done in a final copy of your document.

Zotero works with Google Docs as well, and you will find all the same choices in the menu.

- 1. Add/edit citation... to add a citation
- 2. Add/edit bibliography to add a reference list (Bibliography)
- 3. Click Document preferences if you want to change style and more...

How to share your Zotero collection?

In order to create groups and share references, you must first have a Zotero account, and have data syncing enabled

Click the New Library icon (next to the New Collection icon) and select New Group.

Log into your Zotero account.

Add a Group Name, choose Member settings and add members:

The group will appear in the left pane of your Zotero online account.

Click Manage Members to share your library with other people.

Drag and drop files into the group folder

Items can be viewed or edited by other group members, if their permissions allow it

You can also interact with your groups through the Groups tab on the Zotero website
